Brown's Telephone.
A dispatch in the Globe-Democrat dated Washington, Oct. 2, says: To-morrow the officials of the patent office will make a test of the magnetic telephone. A dead wire, sixty miles long, over in Virginia has been secured for the purpose, and a series of experiments will be conducted with receivers and transmitters, which it is claimed operate with out the use of batteries. This is an official investigation by the patent officials of the wonderful invention first described in a dispatch to the Globe-Democrat from Fort Worth, last June. Mr. F. H. Brown, the Texas inventor, has obtained patents covering his discoveries, but has two applications pending for improvements on his original design. The examiners in passing upon the broad claim that the magnetic telephone and telegraph does away entirely with batteries, expressed some skepticism as to the practicability of the system, and this led to the arrangement for the tests which will be made to-morrow.

The Texas inventor, who "came up here with cow manure on his boots," as one of the interested capitalists expressed it, now stops at the Arlington, and a company with a capital stock of $5,000,000 has been formed in New York, with Col. John J. Saffell at the head of it, to put the invention into practical operation.

This is the third justice of the peace that will shortly be called on to answer for felony.

Jacksonville.
Special to the Gazette.

Jacksonville, Tex., Oct. 6.—The report that sixty or seventy convicts made their escape at the rail camp, on the Kansas & Gulf Short Line railway near Lufkin, on the 4th inst., is not so bad as first reported. The facts as near as your correspondent can get from reliable source are as follows: Sunday evening about 8 o'clock, as the convicts were being searched, about sixty gave a yell and made a break for liberty. One Contrell, a ten-year man, and Jack Hart, another desperate character, seemed to be the leaders. Contrell was shot and killed instantly, and Hart mortally wounded.

The second to somewhat check the majority of the balance of their number, only about twenty-five making their escape. Nine were wounded. All the escaped have been recaptured except six, and it is thought that only four are being pursued by bloodhounds, and the officials are almost certain they will recapture them.

The dead and wounded were brought to Rusk prison to-day, where they will receive attention. It is impossible to give the names of the convicts at this writing.

Mal T. J. Gierce, superintendent of the penitentiary, passed through here this morning, en route for the convict camp.

Neuralgia.

CAN BE CURED WITHOUT THE USE OF OPIUM OR MORPHINE!
The Medical Journal, published at St. Louis, Mo., in the June, 1887, issue, says: "Many have become victims to the use of opium or morphine, from the use of these drugs for the relief of Neuralgia. It is gratifying to observe that such dangerous consequences may be averted by the use of TROSCIAN, which is almost a specific in the same cases of Neuralgia."
